

Detail Itinerary

Jomsom Muktinath trek can start three ways. Number one, approximately an hour drive from Pokhara to Nayapul then trekking to Muktinath via Tikhedhunga, Ghorepani. The second option, Drive to Beni first via Nayapul and either start trekking partly or continue to drive Muktinath via Tatopani (hot spring). And the 3rd option is fly to Jomsom and trek to Muktinath, which is one of the short trekking itineraries in Nepal. If you have enough time for this trekking then Nepal Kailash Trekking Company strongly recommend Start trekking from Nayapul as the first option. Even though, the road is accessible Beni to Jomsom/Muktinath, which still worthful to trekking up to Muktinath. Because not so many vehicles run and also there is possible to follow the old trekking trails partly section.

If you start trekking via Nayapul through Thikhedhunga - Ghorepani - Tatopani (hot spring), the Poon Hill, which is most popular and easy trekking in Nepal. Poon hill offers a panoramic view of Annapurna Himalayas range including sunrise after that we descend to Tatopani, it is natural hot spring. Then trekking trail follows up all the way to the Kali Gandaki River, gorge (Kali Gandaki Gorge is the deepest gorge valley in the world, nearby Dana) passing through Dhaulagiri Icefall nearby Larjung and many fascinating Thakali villages along the way and then to the headquarters of the district called Jomsom. We head to the north to Kagbeni along the riverside way of Kali Gandaki an ancient fortress settlement on the border of Upper Mustang trekking. From Kagbeni trails turn to the north for Muktinath walking through an old village of Jharkot then we head on to Muktinath and explore a day around Muktinath temple and descend to the Jomsom via Lupra and next morning we take a flight to Pokhara.
